Villainy Vs. Virtue At Melodrama Feb. 17, 18

By George Roleder

Mortimer. Did you carry out my orders at the Pickens' Pickle Pickle factory?

Jed. Yeah, everything's took care o'.

Mortimer. Good!

Jed. But how are we goin' to git young Longfeller back to the factory tonight?

Mortimer. Tell him there's been an accident and he's needed at once.

Jed. But s'pose he won't come?

Mortimer. He'll be sure to go once he hears that. Stop acting like a fool.

Jed. I'm representin' you, ain't I?

Mortimer. Egad! . . .

. . . And so on, as the black-hearted villain and his side-kick plot treachery. Heartless villainy will bring hisses, while a superbly-written plot will provide unexpected thrills for the ticket-holders of the third Wartburg Players performance of the year, "Pure as the Driven Snow" or "A Working Girl's Secret," to be presented Feb. 17 and 18 th the campus Little Theater.

Villain Pursues Heroine.

No villainy was ever so cunning and no virtue ever so triumphant as that which will appear "on the boards" next Friday and Saturday. In this Paul Loomis story, co-directed by Jane Aardal and Ray Meier, seniors, a down-trodden heroine is pursued by a rascally villain and, although she falls into his clutches, she believes firmly that "heaven will save the working girl."

"The thespians," says Marianne Schmidt, publicity chairman, "have waiting for their audiences a combination of new angles, funnier jokes and bigger climaxes built around the age-old story of fair women and foul deeds. We are all especially anxious to see a lot of the townspeople at the performance. There's a real treat in store for all the Waverly and Wartburg families who attend."

Playing host to the people involved in the story are veteran players Harold Wienke and Phyllis Vollmer as Jonathan Logan, wizened-up proprietor of "Uland Inn," and his wife, Zamah. Purity Dean, the young heroine who finds shelter at the inn, will be played by Grace Hartman, who has no little affection for the brave pickle-factory ace, Leander Longfellow, played by Howard Rand.

Steinert Gets Hisses.

Bill Steinert will bear the brunt of the hissing as Mortimer Frothingham, the 1950 version of treachery, together with Harold Kruger as Jed Lunn, his death-row-escapee pal. Bob Soll, as E. Z. Pickens, will give the male section of the audience a sample of its own vanily, while Helen Hittenmeyer, playing the part of Imogene, his sister, will give the women an insight into the age-old motif of jealousy.

A dose of snobbishness will be added to the story by socialite Ethelinda Hewlitt, enacted by Lois Snyder, and her spoiled young daughter, Alison, portrayed by Janice Frese.

Clinching the final defeat of villain-and-company will be the surprise testimony of the mysterious Nellie Morris, played by Marjorie Wuebbens, climaxed with a revealing story told by Sylvia Meyn in the role of Mrs. Faith Hogue, guest at the inn. Ruth Engelbrecht, who starred recently as "Blithe Spirit's" Elvira, will enact the role of Letty Barber.

Snacks Here, Too.

Freddy Moberg promises to have plenty of cokes, ice-cream, peanuts, popcorn and candy on hand for a between-act snack. Helping to satisfy the appetites will be Marliss Michelke, Marianne Schmidt, Ernest Maulwurf, Paul Lohnes and Marian Kellner.

The audience will keep pace with the speedy plot through programs prepared by Betty Boebel and Marliss Michelke. General overseeing of the house is in the hands of Paul Lohnes and George Utech. Assistant director is Doris Herrboldt, while scene designer and adviser for the show is speech department head, Raymond D. Wilderman.

Tickets may be purchased from Bob Meyer, Darrell Gray, Roger Krengel, Eugene Begalske, Bill Kraemer or George Roleder.

February 17 or 18

Jed. No, no, I ain't goin' to stand by an' see you harm that babe. You kin tear up the papers but you ain't goin' to burn up that child!

Mortimer. Egad, who said anything about burning up the child? Don't be a fool, you fool!

Support Given To Ingathering By Wartburgers

Support of the 1950 Ingathering will be substituted for a student body project this semester, it was decided at Thursday's student body meeting.

Students voted unanimously to back this campaign, designed for the improvement of American Lutheran church colleges. It has already been adopted by Capital university and Texas Lutheran college.

At the meeting, Bill Biedermann and Ruth Engelbrecht, seniors, outlined the program for the student body, pointing out the benefits Wartburg will receive. Proposed improvements to Wartburg are a chapel auditorium, a new women's dormitory and a commons, complete with cafeteria, meeting rooms and recreational facilities.

Students are to be contacted for donations, the same as for last semester's student body project. As this is a nation-wide drive, students are also being urged to publicize it in their home communities.

Students Are Asked To Vote On Films

Wartburg students this week have a chance to decide whether they want to see a number of first-class foreign pictures at the Waverly theater, according to word received from Vern Hagemann, manager.

Mr. Hagemann announced that he has been offered several pictures of English, Italian and French origin for showings here. He feels, however, that since Wartburg students would be most likely to be interested in seeing these films, they should have a chance to decide on whether or not they will be shown.

Among the titles considered are such prize-winners as J. Arthur Rank's "Red Shoes," "Macbeth," "Hamlet" and possibly also "Henry IV" and "Henry VIII." Among the Italian pictures are the international award winner "Shoeshine," the celebrated "Paisan" and perhaps "Open City," the story of Rome during the Italian campaign in 1944.

Accordingly, the TRUMPET has decided to run a ballot in its columns on which students may express their feelings on the subject. A box will be placed in the college bookstore, and all ballots should be returned there by the close of next week.

Berini To Appear Next Wednesday

By Claude Grelling

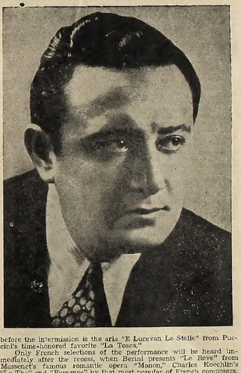
Swamped under by news releases and concert programs, pictures and travel schedules, Dr. A. W. Swensen, head of the chemistry department at Wartburg, is once more preparing to exchange his acid-stained laboratory coat for an impeccable tuxedo and black bow tie.

That time will come when the Artist Series committee, of which Dr. Swensen is chairman, presents Mario Berini, sensational new Metropolitan Opera tenor, as the third attraction on the 1949-50 Artist Series program next Wednesday, Feb. 15, at 8 p.m. in the Knights gymnasium.

"Mario Berini, who made a sensational Metropolitan debut in 'Faust,' is the best new opera singer of the year."

In his appearance here, Berini will present a well-rounded concert of operatic and semi-classical music, including arias from a number of operas which he has performed. Two of these are included in the first part of the program, "Where'er You Walk" from "Semele" and "Sound an Alarm" from "Judas Maccabeus," both by Handel. Third number in this group is the ever-popular anonymous "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes."

Part two of the program is composed of a group of four German songs, two by Schubert and two by Richard Strauss. Last number before the intermission is the aria "E Lucevan Le Stelle" from Puccini's time-honored favorite "La Tosca."



Only French selections of the performance will be heard immediately after the recess, when Berini presents "Le Reve" from Massenet's famous romantic opera "Manon," Charles Koechlin's "Le The" and "Romance" by that most popular of French composers, Claude Debussy. Also included in this part of the program is an aria, "The Legend of Lkeinzach," from "The Tales of Hoffman" by the famous German romantic, Offenbach.

Final selections are a number of semi-popular pieces, such as the traditional "Londonderry Air," made famous by Al Jolson in the mid-twenties under the title of "Danny Boy." Other songs in this part of the program are "The Rovin' Gambler" by John Jacob Niles, "Tell Me, O Blue, Blue Sky" by Vittorio Giannini and Strauss-Korngold's "Walzerlied," based on the melody of the "Tales from the Vienna Woods."

'Carnival Of Hearts' Tonight At 8

An evening of fun is on tap tonight at 8 p.m. when the freshman class sponsors its all-school party, "Carnival of Hearts," in the Little Theater.

"Everyone is invited to attend this informal affair," states Katherine Mueller, chairman of the entertainment committee. "A series of new games has been scheduled as well as a community sing. Entertainment will also be provided by surprise talent, and refreshments will be served."

Several mixers have also been planned for a well-rounded evening of entertainment.

Registration At Sem

Registration for the second semester at Wartburg Seminary totals 126 men, according to the latest issue of "Towerside Chats," monthly paper of the Wartburg Theological Seminary Students' association.

Of the total enrollment, 29 are seniors, 38 middlers and 41 juniors. As many as 18 men are serving as interns or are otherwise absent from the campus.

Knight Femmes Get Invitation

Women students and wives of men students will be entertained by the Wartburg Women's club at an informal coffee hour next Wednesday morning from 8:30 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. in the lounge of Wartburg hall.

Mrs. A. C. Bundgaard is in charge of arrangements, with Mrs. C. G. Shalkhauser, Mrs. E. A. Schick, Mrs. Raymond Wilderman, Mrs. Rose LaBahn, Miss Helen Wright and Miss Margaret Wolff assisting.

Regular meeting of the Wartburg Women's club scheduled for Feb. 15 has been canceled because of the Mario Berini concert on that evening, as announced by the president, Miss Hazel May Snyder.

Resolution Foretells New Plan Regarding Knight Publications

Adoption of a resolution for a new plan concerning student publications highlighted the Student Senate meeting Monday night in the faculty room of Luther hall. This plan has been submitted to the publications committee for approval.

According to the recommendation, editors of student publications would be elected by the student body from two nominations chosen by the publications committee from applications received. Business managers would be appointed by the editors with the approval of the publications committee.

Editors and business managers would be paid, this payment coming equally from the students, the administration and from profits of the publications themselves. This would probably increase the student activities fee from 25 to 50 cents.

Mumps Epidemic Hits Knight Campus

Mumps have hit the Wartburg campus. No less than six Knights and Knighties are suffering from the inability to eat pickles and the complications of swollen glands.

Parotitie patients listed by Mrs. Walter Jackson, college nurse, are Norma Jean Brockman, freshman living in Annex III; Lyle Niemeyer, freshman from Plainfield; Bob Schlachtenhaufen, junior, and Lowell Schultz, sophomore, both living in Grossmann hall; Vernon Wiebke, freshman, who resides at 415 Fifth street N. W., and George Utech, freshman living at the Melvin Nelson residence.

Faculty Evaluation Is Helpful

This week an article printed in the Des Moines Register told of a proposed plan for student evaluation of faculty members at the State University of Iowa.

Such a story indicates quite clearly that the opportunity which students have at Wartburg to give objective and strictly confidential evaluations of their instructors is not shared by students of most other colleges and universities in the United States.

Student grading of the teaching staffs of colleges is a relatively new and unproved departure in the field of education—a departure which is considered by many to border a bit on the radical side. It is for this reason that institutions such as the University of Iowa are investigating and experimenting with the idea in order to ascertain the true values that may be derived from such a plan.

Faculty evaluation at Wartburg began last spring, when students were given the opportunity to grade each instructor on various points, such as subject knowledge, teaching methods, approachability, Christian attitude and mannerisms. The proposed evaluation program at Iowa university would follow a similar pattern.

Students at Wartburg like the chance to grade their instructors. They like to give praise and credit where it is deserved and they like to point out some of the areas in which they think improvement in the teacher is desirable. They hope that in this way the instructors may gain knowledge of their weaknesses and strengths and thereby help them to rise to the heights to which they aspire.

Students do not, however, pretend that their evaluations are infallible, just as they do not always consider the instructors' grading of the students to be always infallible. Any type of grading in the field of education does, of necessity, contain a certain amount of personal opinion which cannot be entirely divorced from the purely objective considerations which the questions present.

Students believe just as firmly, however, that personal opinion and prejudice is kept at an absolute minimum in the evaluations and that on a whole, their gradings are honest, conscientious and reasonably trustworthy.

Faculty evaluation plans are welcomed by the students for another reason also. It is a recognition on the part of the college administration that they possess the maturity, the intelligence and the criteria which will make possible an unbiased and accurate report.

The students at Wartburg would like to say that they are greatful for this opportunity of grading faculty members. They would encourage other colleges to adopt a similar plan.

Political Pageant

By Claude Grelling

The Fear Of Fear

America really has something to worry about this week-end. The storm that has been brewing in the sky of international politics is slowly coming to a head. Already the first flashes of lightning have struck and the first roll of thunder has echoed around the world.

First signs of the breaking came early this week, when Secretary of State Dean Acheson announced that the U.S. would have no further conferences with Russia on the control of atomic energy. Said Acheson:

> "Four years of negotiations have taught us that this (i.e., to come to an agreement with Russia) is impossible."

The second, more ominous, rumble was heard last Thursday when Waldemar Schmidt, chief of police in Russian-controlled east Berlin, ordered his men to prepare for an all-out fight for the German capital next May 28. Said Schmidt:

> "Today there is no longer any doubt about the outcome of the fight for Berlin. The end of May the youth of all Germany will meet here. American tanks, which (Socialist leader) Schumacher hysterically demands, will not prevent them from coming here."

The wholesale attack on the west-Berlin police is to be launched in connection with a mass demonstration of five hundred thousand communist youth in the capital. If successful, it will put the Russians in full control of the three western sectors and of the two or three million Berliners living in those zones.

The third and last clap of thunder was also recorded in Germany, when the east-German people's chamber passed two laws which practically put Germany back to the days of 1933 and the rise of Adolf Hitler. The first bill provides for a new ministry of state security and a secret police with unlimited powers of arrest, fashioned after the infamous Nazi Gestapo and the Soviet OGPU.

The second bill passed by the chamber reestablishs a regimented youth organization modeled after the "Hitler Jugend" of Nazi days. Membership in the FDJ—free German youth (!)—is compulsory for all young people who desire to participate in community affairs, attend school or obtain ration cards.

> No matter what these developments lead to, they must not be permitted to precipitate another war. In spite of Acheson's premature breaking off of atomic parleys, we must try by all possible means to come to a peaceful agreement. Perhaps it would be well at this point to remember the words of FDR — "THE ONLY THING WE HAVE TO FEAR IS FEAR ITSELF." We must not permit panic to overwhelm our powers af reasoning.

I deeply and strongly believe that peace can be achieved, because it MUST be achieved. Another war would be the end of our way of life. We must talk with the Russians, we must plead with the Russians and we must, if necessary, even compromise with the Russians. It will take courage for the men in the state department to decide these issues, but we, the people, can help by remaining calm. In next week's column I shall try to present some possible solutions to the present situation. Meanwhile, let us remember that war never has solved, never will solve anything. Let us be afraid of but one thing—of being afraid!

. . Gleanings From The Band Tour . .

As told by Able Gundacker

Back again, for better or for worse, are the 50-odd members of the Wartburg college concert band after a hair-raising tour through the large urban centers of northeast Iowa . . . .

. . . If they learned nothing else, band members are convinced that northeast Iowa contains a group of music-loving citizens . . . So great was their fervor for the Wartburg college music that they applauded three times during each playing of the Slavonic Rhapsody . . . Band Director Odegard took the applause in stride, though, and politely turned around to bow in response each time . . .

. . . The audience was a little more wary after the next number. A full five minutes had to elapse before they were convinced that the number was over and could muster enough courage to break out into thunderous applause. . . .

. . . At every concert the band director of the host-town directed the band through one of its numbers . . . At Strawberry Point Jim Fritschel and his Four Hornsmen paid the lady band director there a real compliment when they stood up and bowed as she stepped on the podium . . . .

. . . Ruth Meyer and Marli Michelke surprised everyone the morning the bus left for Rockford . . . It seems Ruth and Marli got up a little late that morning, and so they had to make the mad dash with their pajamas showing from under their band uniforms . . .

. . . The 50-member aggregation made the rounds in two chartered busses . . . All the rowdies rode in bus number one under the direction of Hellener, Meyer and Odegard . . . All those who could be trusted rode in the second bus, under the direction of Miss Perna Lohn. . . .

. . . Alton Schwendt, announcer for the band, pulled the boner of the day at Postville when, at the end of the concert he said, "We appreciate the devoted attention of the audience here at Potsville." . . .

. . . Lou Obermeyer managed to get farmed out to a home with a 19-year-old daughter . . . . he also says he milked three cows while on the farm and has the sore hands to prove it. . . .

. . . Idle moments on tour were spent with cards (postcards, playing cards and just plain "cards") . . . Dick Zimmerman wrote a postcard to all his favorite instructors back at Wartburg. . . .

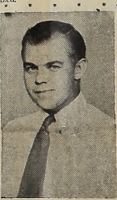
. . . One of the rules was to keep couples inconspicuous, but Marilyn Mueller and fiance just couldn't seem to cover up their emotions very well . . . They even had to eat out of the same plate at Maynard. . . .

Wartburg's Newest Teacher---

Meet Frederick Weber

By Marianne Schmidt

Probably bacteriology and botany students are the only campus dwellers that have met Wartburg's newest instructor. He's Frederick Weber, who arrived with the second semester and is now busy getting his new courses organized.



Frederick Weber

Weber states that he is from the East and gives a number of home states to prove his point. He spent his boyhood in a small New Jersey town (where his wife is from, also), graduated from Rhode Island State college and just about a month ago received his master of science degree from Penn State college.

Teacher Begins Interest.

A good teacher, claims Weber, stimulated his first interest in bacteriology. But he hadn't made up his mind about his field until the army put him to work as a lab technician in "special problems." His special problem was to find out all he could about streptococci and their relation to rheumatic fever. Don't ask him what it is, though. He's liable to shrug his shoulders, laugh and blame it on the army.

The army was kind to him, however. Working with British Intelligence, he got a chance to look around London during the war and afterwards to visit Hitler's hangout, Berchtesgaden.

That, he notes approvingly, was "rather interesting. I got to meet some of the German wheels—chiefs of staff who were pretty shrewd cookies."

Active in Frat.

In his pre-war college days, Weber was an active Tau Kappa Epsilon member—being president for two years and a lesser officer the two years before.

As far as sports go he says, "I played a little football, but was too clumsy for basketball."

Of German descent, Weber isn't finding it difficult to adjust to Waverly. He appreciates the friendliness of the people who "aren't so busy making money," as his eastern compatriots.

PIPE DREAMS
WITH OMAR

It's almost impossible to talk about the weather in this column. Because Pipe Dreams begins to puff at least two or three days before the reader sees it in print, the temptation to dwell on things which are so changeable must be ignored. But it was sloppy out this week, wasn't it?

o O o

Now that new moisturizers and window ventilators have been placed in the library, one would think that all griping about dry heat would cease, but here comes a complaint from a reader who says that part of the coal shortage could be avoided if the Little Theater weren't kept so warm—hot, he said—during convocations.

Men of Grossmann are busy people these days. They're tearing down the walls and ceiling in the basement and raising mumps on the second and third floors.

Rumor has it that less than eighty-five per cent of the Wartburg population is behind in assignments this semester.

Matmen Drop First In Five, 18-6

By Bob Snyder

Coach "Nellie" Nelson's matmen went down to defeat, for the first time in five starts this season, yesterday afternoon at the hands of the Beloit college grapplers at Beloit, Wis. At least part of the fault for the 18-6 trouncing may be attributed to the fact that the Knights had to wrestle immediately upon their arrival at Beloit, instead of being able to rest until 8 p.m., when the meet had been scheduled.

An unusual number of "firsts" marked the encounter, including the first defeats of the season for three Wartburg wrestlers—Howie "Champ" Wolfgram, Wendell "Red" Wilharm and Ray Meier. Futhermore, it was the first time this year that all points for both teams were scored on decisions. Team captain Wolfgram had been protecting a 13-match, two-year winning streak before yesterday.

Individual Results

121-lb. FRED DOWNING decisioned Standish, 4-0.

128-lb. French decisioned WENDELL WILHARM, 8-7.

136-lb. Williams decisioned MARVIN BROSZ, 5-2.

145-lb. Comprey decisioned CLARENCE BRUNINGA, 4-0.

155-lb. Waters decisioned HOWARD WOLFGRAM, 5-4.

165 lb. Green decisioned JIM WAGNER, 2-0.

175-lb. Shaffer decisioned RAY MEIER, 2-1.

Hwt. ERVIN HANUS decisioned O'Neil, 6-5.

Taking off this weekend on a two-day tour of Wisconsin and Illinois, Knights left behind them an unblemished record of four victories and no defeats. They wrestled Beloit last night and are wrestling Wheaton this afternoon.

Ray Meier Returns.

Ray Meier has returned to the squad after an absence of several weeks. His presence in the 175-lb. slot has greatly strengthened the upper weight division of the team. In his only appearance this year he gained a pin against Grinnell in 6:35.

Wartburg seized the rubber match in its series with Macalester by beating the team from St. Paul, 23-10, here in the Knights gymnasium, Feb. 4.

Festivities for the evening got off to a rapid start with three pins in the first three matches. Downing and Wilharm gained pins for Wartburg while Bill Snyder, Macalester, pinned Marv Brosz.

Clarence Bruninga wrestled to his second draw of the season when he gained two points for riding time to tie John Carpenter. Fee Hanus pinned George Warner in a quick 2:03 for his second victory of the season.

Larson Continues Jinx.

Carl Larson continued his domination of Wartburg wrestlers by decisioning Otto Zwanziger, 11-3. In the three meets with the Knights he has decisioned Ray Meier, Jim Wagner and now Zwanziger.

Results for the evening are as follows:

121-lb. FRED DOWNING pinned Bill McMillan in 3:53.

128-lb. WENDELL WILHARM pinned Bob Sherwood in 3:30.

136-lb. Bill Snyder pinned MARVIN BROSZ in 1:09.

145-lb. CLARENCE BRUNINGA and John Carpenter wrestled to an 8-8 draw. The score was 8-6 in favor of Carpenter, but Bruninga gained two points for riding time.

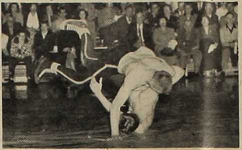
155-lb. HOWARD WOLFGRAM decisioned Dwayne Roberts, 4-2.

165-lb. JIM WAGNER decisioned Dave Carlson, 4-0.

175-lb. Carl Larson decisioned OTTO ZWANZIGER, 11-3.

Hwt. ERVIN HANUS pinned

Wagner In Air But On Top



Legs, arms and flexed muscles are about all that can be seen as Jim Wagner gives his opponent, Dave Carlson of Macalester, a working-over during their match last Saturday night in the Knights gymnasium. Jim went on to win 4-0.

10 Guns Still Simpson As Knights Win 62-55

With 10 guns instead of five, Wartburg cagers snapped back into the victory column last Tuesday night by upsetting a highly-touted Simpson team 62-55 at Indianola.

Coach Ax Bundgaard unveiled a new two-platoon system in basketball against the Redmen, which, together with a hot shooting average of 32 per cent, let the Knights overtake their southern-division opponent midway in the second half and sail on to win by a fairly comfortable margin.

Axmen Surge.

Simpson led by 12 points with only seven minutes remaining in the first half, but then the Axmen produced a surge which narrowed the Simpson margin to only 34-30 at halftime.

Knights had a difficult time overtaking the Redmen in the second half, but finally, with nine minutes remaining, Paul Bruns sank a free throw which put the Knights out in front for the first time by a score of 49-48.

Stay Out Front.

After that it was Wartburg all the way, with Simpson able to collect only seven more points, while the Axmen picked up 13.

Fritz Steinhauer led the Knight attack with 12 points, while little Bobby Campbell was not far behind with 10. Chuck Kerr was high for Simpson with 22 points.

Fred Downing Wins 'W' Club Selection As Week's Athlete

By Fred Moberg

Emerging victoriously from the Wartburg grappling battles with Augustana, Grinnell, South Dakota state and Macalester, Fred Downing, freshman from Waverly, remained undefeated and merited this week's Athlete-of-the-Week honors.

In the recent encounter with the Macalester matmen, Fred showed the aggressive spirit which has enabled him to earn 18 points and tie with Wendell Wilharm for the season's top scoring honors.

From Waverly High.

Fred was graduated from Waverly high school, where he participated in football, track, wrestling and band. While in high school he earned three letters in wrestling and in his junior year also won the Northeast Iowa conference wrestling championship in the 95-pound weight class. This veteran grappler gained much of his early training from "Nellie" Nelson, who was coaching at Waverly High during Fred's freshman year.

At Wartburg he is pursuing a liberal arts course and is undecided as to his major subject.

Pinned Macalester Man.

In the meet with the Macalester grapplers, this 5-foot 7½-inch 121-pound wrestler observed his opponent carefully but in the first period could find no weakness. However, in the second period he began to show his training and experience when he took possession of Bill McMillan and pinned him in 3 minutes and 53 seconds through the use of the dreaded guillotine hold.

During the recent interview, Fred seemed to be excited and anxious about the Knights' road trip, but he expressed no doubts as to the outcome of the encounters with the Beloit Blue Devils and the Wheaton Crusaders.

Yes, there was joy at Wartburg last night as the Knights trounced their bitter rivals, Upper Iowa university, 70-57, on the home court before an enthusiastic crowd.

It was the first basketball victory for the Black and Orange over its old nemesis from Fayette in at least four years.

Last night Wartburg broke the spell and poured it on all the way for an impressive win. The Knights took the lead on two quick buckets by Paul Olson and were never headed as they pulled away to a 12-2 lead.

As the Peacocks rushed to close the gap to 12-10, coach Ax Bundgaard sent in a fresh quintet to keep the Knights in front.

Lefty "Fritz" Steinhauer and "Jumpin' Jim" Keller led the way as both turned in slam-bang performances for Wartburg. Both garnered 14 points for top scoring honors; both did a terrific job of rebounding to help the Knights control the boards.

Steinhauer pumped in 13 of his points in the torrid first half to keep the Knights in the lead. Keller took over after the intermission and played a great all-round game, shooting, rebounding, and guarding very well.

Bobby Campbell, Paul Bruns and "Spitz" Spier were also stellar standouts. Time and again the Upper Iowa fast break was broken up by timely defensive work.

Halftime found the Knights sporting a ten point, 37-27, lead.

Upper Iowa never got closer than eight points after the rest period. With the score standing at 39-31, the Knights quickly spurted ahead. A free throw by Rowray, a one-hander by Miller, a gift toss by Keller, a long swisher by Rowray, a delayed jump shot and a push shot from out by Keller put the Knights ahead, 49-34.

Five fresh men entered the lineup for Wartburg to keep up the pace. Spier tallied immediately, Bruns hit on a drive-in after Froehle potted two quick buckets for the Peacocks. Steinhauer and Keller hit from the free throw line, Keller rimmed another one-hander, Campbell scored on the fast break, Bruns tanked three deuces and Spier added another to put Wartburg in a comfortable lead, 69-51.

Meeting Postponed

Because of the first round of girls' intramural basketball competition Monday evening, the Phebes organization will meet Tuesday evening at 7:15 p.m. in Wartburg hall lounge.

Featured on the program Tuesday evening will be a discussion on how to run a mimeograph machine, movie projector and other instruments.

"This should be of a practical nature to all Phebes," stated Donna Jean Weigum, president.

Ylvisaker Gives Basis For Christian Education

By Bill Boyken

Luther came to Wartburg, figuratively at least, last Tuesday during convocation, when the president of Luther college, Dr. J. W. Ylvisaker spoke on the subject, "How Can Education Be Christian?"

Dr. Ylvisaker's address, richly seasoned with enlightening illustrations and witticisms, struck home at a basic problem of a Christian educational institution in a way that was both enjoyable and inspirational.

Basing his remarks upon the Latin word "dux," meaning leader, from which the word "education" is derived, Dr. Ylvisaker first of all made the point that education is leadership and that this leadership has been entrusted to the teachers.

Teachers Decide.

Speaking in clear, resonant tones, he expounded his theory by saying that teachers will decide whether the courses which they teach will be farcical or valuable, whether education will be Christian or pagan.

But the Luther college president laid more stress upon the Latin prefix "e" in the word education, which means a leading out from something.

"Certainly," he said, "education should mean a leading out from such things as fears, superstition, prejudice and the like, but the direction of this leading out is of even more importance."

Goal Adds Direction.

Using the illustration of "Wrong-Way" Corrigan, Dr. Ylvisaker said that it is not everyone who can start in the wrong direction and get to the right place. The greatest tragedy in life, he went on to say, is the boy or girl who starts out life with the best intentions, but at the end of life finds out that he has set his sights on the wrong goal.

"In a Christian college," said the speaker, "the sights are set high. There is an 'e' here — a departure from sins and Satan and a direction that is Christward and toward God. Whatever your major may be, the teachers are setting this sight for you."

Student All-Important.

Dr. Ylvisaker was quick to point out, however, that in the last analysis a Christian education depends on the student himself.

"If you were to form a circle of your life, what would be the center?" he asked his audience. "We would probably say 'ourselves,' but Jesus put his Father in the center. So it is in a Christian's life—he puts Christ in the center."

As a basis for his talk, Dr. Ylvisaker suggested the 14th chapter of St. John's gospel, which begins, "Let not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also in me . . . I am the way, the truth and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me."

Fruehlings Have Baby

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Fruehling are the proud parents of a new baby girl born last Monday, Feb. 6. The new arrival has been named Carolyn Ann.

Moeller To Speak

The Rev. Paul Moeller of the Waverly Children's Home will compare specialized ministry and parish ministry in an address to Chi Rho at 1:30 Sunday in the Little Theater, according to Richard Bahe, senior and program chairman.

Project of holding devotions in St. Joseph's Mercy hospital will be a part of the business meeting. Elections of this semester's head usher for services in St. Paul's Lutheran church and plans for the field trip to Waterloo on Sunday, Feb. 26, are also on the business agenda.

Announce Engagement

Robert Gronlund, junior at Wartburg Seminary, placed a ring on the third finger, left hand, of Dorothy Dahlstrom, teacher at Winthrop high school, on Feb. 3.

Both Gronlund and Miss Dahlstrom graduated from Wartburg last year. Bob was student body president for the last semester of the 1948-49 school year at Wartburg.

Prof. To Broadcast

Dr. A. W. Swensen, professor of chemistry at Wartburg, and Lt. Claude Shearer of the Iowa State Highway Patrol, may be heard over radio station KXEL, Waterloo, at 7:30 p.m. Saturday evening, Feb. 18.

Subject of Dr. Swensen's and Lt. Shearer's remarks will be "The Drinking Driver."

Famous Lutherans

Philipp Melanchthon

*Number 2 in an

famous Lutherans*

"The Schoolmaster of Germany" from the WORLD BOOK ENCYCLOPEDIA, courtesy of Field Enterprises, Inc.

Hidden in the shadow of every great historical figure, stands a forgotten man . . . the genius behind the other's greatness. Such a man was Philipp Melanchthon. While his claim to fame is most closely linked with Luther's religious reformation, he was also one of the world's greatest educators. Our modern teachers colleges are patterned after the sixteenth century schools established by him.

As young professors at Wittenberg, he and Luther became fast friends. It was Melanchthon's powerful pen that gave strength and beauty to Luther's Bible translation and the Augsburg Confession.

His body is buried in the Castle Church of Wittenberg where he so eloquently delivered the funeral sermon for Luther.

In Melanchthon's day, only a chosen few could enjoy the fruits of education. Today — thanks to the educational endowment policies of Lutheran Mutual — it is possible for every Lutheran child to look forward to the college education which means so much to his future.
